GE/SJSU Studies Category:	N/A. Please note that CDR (discussed below), an option in EnvS 193, is a SJSU approved service-learning course . EnvS 193/CDR is also accepted as a substitute for the Environmental Studies Department internship (EnvS 194) requirement.

CLASS FORMAT

This is an independent study class. Students may work on supervised projects individually, with other professors, in groups, or with the Center for the Development of Recycling (CDR). CDR students will work with a CDR Manager(s) and the CDR Director. Non-CDR students will work directly with the professor of this course. Students have a responsibility to create a work schedule, get the schedule approved (form is provided by this instructor), complete work as scheduled, and to report on activities. Most EnvS 193 students work at the CDR and work on projects while also serving public requests for recycling information (phone, chat, and email).

This course is scheduled to meet face-to-face for all or some of the schedule throughout the Fall 2020 semester. But, if the Santa Clara County Public Health Department shifts back to shelter-in-place given an increase in COVID-19 positive cases, this class will move to a fully-online modality for the remainder of the semester. If this becomes the case, in order to meet the learning outcomes of this course, students will work on assigned projects remotely.

OFFICE VISITS

I want you to succeed. Should matters intervene causing a disruption with the project schedule, please consult with relevant faculty member(s)/collaborators and the professor of this course as soon as possible so we can agree on adjusting the Project Schedule as needed. Please do not wait for an insurmountable problem before considering an office visit. Schedules can be adjusted with the approval of the professor of this course and of any advisor a student may be working with.

COURSE OBJECTIVE

Welcome to an opportunity to participate with an environmental organization and/or project. This course is intended for students to gain project management skills while they study and research environmental topics that are otherwise unavailable in regular courses. Students will organize and implement projects and follow a definitive plan to complete activities in a timely basis.

Many students earn EnvS 193 academic credit while engaged in service-learning and internship activities at the Center for Development of Recycling (CDR). Service-learning, also known as community-engaged learning, is when students provide a community service while learning about the field they are engaged with. CDR is contracted with the Counties of San Mateo (SMC) and Santa Clara (SCC). We operate the recycling and household hazardous waste (HHW) call center and website for SCC and the recycling website for SMC. Working at CDR is an opportunity for students to gain pre-professional experience and develop skill sets to enhance personal resumes for environmental internships and careers. EnvS 193 may substitute for EnvS 194.

For non-CDR students, EnvS 193 is an opportunity to work one-on-one with a professor while researching an environmental topic within a student's specific interest area. While opportunities for projects are as boundless as one's imagination, the skills to complete a project on time and on budget are keys to its success. This course is designed to develop those skills and see projects thoroughly and successfully completed. Students may work with any professor, with the approval of this instructor.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Complete a special study or project.
2. Engage organizational skills needed for project management.
3. Learn project management and communication skills.

REQUIRED TEXTS

There are no required textbooks for this course. Forms that explain the process of the course are provided by the professor and are available on the Canvas Learning Management System or on Google Drive.

COURSE SCHEDULE

The class will likely meet on 1 or two occasions for shared discussions on methods and scope (your Project Profile) used in projects. There is also an exit interview for all students to review completed projects and activities with the professor. Students will be notified of meetings by a CDR Manager and may self-schedule their exit interview at the completion of their project.

Students are to create their own attendance schedule and to choose an activity from the CDR Project List which is maintained by the CDR Director. Attendance schedule and project selection must be approved by the CDR Director. Once an attendance schedule is set (example: T-Th 1p-5p) it must remain the same throughout the semester. Students may choose an activity from the Project List and complete a Project Schedule. Project Schedules are then to be maintained by the student and reviewed and approved by the faculty advisor/CDR Director. A project schedule is a planning document that expresses project components, scope, resources needed to complete it (software, field equipment, computers, library research, funds, etc.) and a timeline. This “Project Profile” must be approved before work actually begins. At CDR, managers assist students with this task. CDR managers will create a personal folder for each student on CDR’s computers. Use this folder to store all of your documents, record activities and to access course materials. Forms for this and all course activities are provided in the “Staff Files” on the CDR computers and on Canvas. These documents will be the basis for determining the progress made on the project, evaluating the project, and providing a grade.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS, GRADING AND ASSIGNMENTS

SJSU classes are designed such that in order to be successful, it is expected that students will spend a minimum of forty-five hours for each unit of credit (normally three hours per unit per week), including preparing for class, participating in course activities, completing assignments, and so on. More details about student workload can be found in University Policy S12-3 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-3.pdf>. Please be sure to be enrolled in the correct number of units.

CLASSROOM PROTOCOL/STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES

A key element of this course is learning and executing project-management skills. Students at CDR will have projects guided by management staff and the CDR Director. Students will also staff the call center and learn office skills. CDR and non-CDR students are expected to develop, implement and accomplish milestones established in a timeline using the tools provided in the course (See Appendices A and B). All research must be pre-approved and supervised by faculty. Class members who are consistently engaged with their project(s) and communicate regularly make for a good learning experience.

EnvS 193 requires visits and discussions with faculty and other advisors that are involved in the project. Non-CDR EnvS 193 students must complete a Project Schedule form and Project Profile. These schedules must include visits with faculty or other sources. The document will be used to discuss progress on the project(s). The form is to be shared with other collaborators, such as a student's academic advisor as it is also a record of project activities and progress.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

General Expectations, Rights and Responsibilities of the Student

As members of the academic community, students accept both the rights and responsibilities incumbent upon all members of the institution. Students are encouraged to familiarize themselves with SJSU's policies and practices pertaining to the procedures to follow if and when questions or a concern about a class arises. To learn important campus information, view University Policy S90-5 at <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S90-5.pdf> and SJSU current semester's Policies and Procedures, at <http://info.sjsu.edu/static/catalog/policies.html>. In general, it is recommended that students begin by seeking clarification or discussing concerns with their instructor. If such conversation is not possible, or if it does not address the issue, it is recommended that the student contact the Department Chair as the next step.

Dropping and Adding

Students are responsible for understanding the policies and procedures about add/drop, grade forgiveness, etc. Add/drop deadlines can be found on the current academic year calendars document on the Academic Calendars webpage at http://www.sjsu.edu/provost/services/academic_calendars/. The Late Drop Policy is available at <http://www.sjsu.edu/aars/policies/latedrops/policy/>. Students should be aware of the current deadlines and penalties for dropping classes.

University Policy S12-7, <http://www.sjsu.edu/senate/docs/S12-7.pdf>, requires students to obtain instructor's permission to record the course and the following items to be included in the syllabus:

- "Common courtesy and professional behavior dictate that you notify someone when you are recording him/her. You must obtain the instructor's permission to make audio or video recordings in this class. Such permission allows the recordings to be used for your private, study purposes only. The recordings are the intellectual property of the instructor; you have not been given any rights to reproduce or distribute the material."
 - It is suggested that the green sheet include the instructor's process for granting permission, whether in writing or orally and whether for the whole semester or on a class by class basis.
 - In classes where active participation of students or guests may be on the recording, permission of those students or guests should be obtained as well.

- “Course material developed by the instructor is the intellectual property of the instructor and cannot be shared publicly without his/her approval. You may not publicly share or upload instructor generated material for this course such as exam questions, lecture notes, or homework solutions without instructor consent.”
