Fernando Giraldo is the Chief Probation Officer for Santa Cruz County, California and has been with the Department since 1995. Mr. Giraldo has a Master's Degree in Social Work from San Jose State University and holds a Bachelor's Degree in Latin American Studies from The University of California, Santa Cruz. As the Chief of Probation he oversees three divisions: Adult, Juvenile and the Juvenile Institution.

Santa Cruz County Probation is a nationally recognized model site for Juvenile Detention Reform working to reduce racial and ethnic disparities through the Annie E. Casey Foundation. Mr. Giraldo has specialized in developing, implementing, and managing day treatment programs, evening reporting centers, and other innovative collaborative programs involving multiple agencies. Santa Cruz Probation has a successful history of working with a number of national foundations that have supported the department in advancing innovative systemic reforms. These reforms have resulted in a sharp reduction in overall detention population in Santa Cruz County and also a reduction in juvenile crime.

Mr. Giraldo was also a consultant for the National Institute of Corrections; developing distance learning programs and was a national trainer on cognitive behavioral programs. Throughout his career he has been successful in writing grants and has worked with community partners to leverage funding that has helped advance and sustain system reforms in Santa Cruz. Mr. Giraldo has participated in radio and television programs, and been part of numerous panels and presentations at the national level speaking about juvenile and adult system reforms, disproportionate minority contact in the justice system, cultural competency, development of detention alternatives, evidence based practices, cost effective programs and collaboration with community partners, and leadership.

We are delighted that he is able to be here today to speak to our graduates!

We congratulate the Class of 2015 JUSTICE STUDIES SPARTANS!

MVPOA is a diverse group of individuals dedicated to serving our community. From the police officer on patrol to the records specialist working at our front desk, we are all here to provide nothing less than exceptional service.

Mountain View Police is a progressive, community-oriented department and many of our officers are Justice Studies alumni!

WE INVITE YOU TO CHECK US OUT AT WWW.MVPOA.NET

The SJSU Record Clearance Project salutes all Justice Studies graduates for their hard work and dedication to promoting justice.

Students in the San José State University Record Clearance Project (RCP) assist eligible people to clear their criminal records and make good on the promise of equal justice for all.

Long after RCP clients have served their sentences, their records hold them back from employment, housing, student loans and similar opportunities. Students make a difference by explaining legal rights, advising people of next steps toward expungement, and filing papers in court. RCP students' work helps people to better provide for themselves and their families, and to look forward to a brighter future.

HUMAN RIGHTS PROGRAM: SPRING 2015 GRADUATION NOTES

Spring 2015 Human Rights Action Projects (HRAPs)

Carry the Vision, Restore Project

Students worked with Carry the Vision to interview public service and educational professionals on the implementation of mindfulness programs in San Jose Schools and County offices. Research suggests their success (SF) when it comes to violence reduction, mental health, and performance.

Continued DACA Outreach

This student-driven campaign continued for its third semester in partnership with the San Jose Peace and Justice Center. Students work with partnered organizations to educate, promote, and provide free DACA legal services to needy South Bay families.

CA Immigration Policy

Students worked in close collaboration with Human Agenda to conduct policy research, lobbying efforts, and policy reports on problematic restrictions ("50 mile rule") affecting migrant farmworkers in CA.

Minor in Human Rights: Introduction and Select Updates

Human Rights Minors explore the history and structure of human rights and international law, study historical human rights struggles, meet and work with SF Bay Area human rights organizations, and gain experience in a graduate style symposium course. Human Rights Minors are interested in careers or graduate study related to international law, international relations, international diplomacy, policy studies, human rights advocacy and reporting, forensic reporting on war crimes/genocide/crimes against humanity, community organizing, public policy, and social movement networks.

In our capstone course, students work in teams of 3-6 on a Human Rights Action Project [HRAPs] with a partnered human rights organization to solve the social problems that confront our communities such as police brutality, institutional racism, sexual assault, wealth inequality, failed prison conditions, and human trafficking. These collaborations expand students' professional networks and employment chances within agencies and organizations on the forefront of human rights work in the U.S.

Currently, our Human Rights Minors are spearheading and supporting ongoing HRAPs with organizations such as the San Jose Peace and Justice Center, Fresh Lifelines for Youth (FLY), CommUniverCity/Garden2Table, the ACLU of Northern CA, Carry the Vision, and national campaigns to address solitary confinement, mass incarceration, and racist/classist police violence. #blacklivesmatter

The Human Rights Program and Local Policy

We are happy to continue our partnership with the Santa Clara County Office of Human Relations and the SCC Human Relations Commission to review and provide the legal human rights framework for policy reports moving forward to the SCC Board of Supervisors. We are also excited to announce a similar partnership, beginning this spring (April, 2015) with the SF Human Rights Commission. All published reports thus far have been effective and manifestly impactful on policy (suggested actions achieved). Want to see our reports? Want to participate in these policy discussions? Follow us on Twitter @SJSUHumanRights.

Human Rights Lecture, Spring 2015

This spring, we collaborated with several SJSU organizations to host a special edition of our Annual Lecture Event: Human Rights, Racism, and the Police State. The event featured young organizers from the front lines of the #blacklivesmatter and #endsolitary movements (Chicago, Ferguson, Oakland, San Jose), workshops with the Hip Hop Chess Federation and WeCopWatch, and a keynote speech by Dr. Angela Davis (UCSC). ## Did you know?

The students being honored today are graduating from one of the oldest Justice Studies programs in the United States. The Justice Studies Department of San José State University has a long history of preparing students for a professional career in criminal justice.

In 1930, President T. W. MacQuarrie of San Jose State Teacher's College, was introduced to August Vollmer, Chief of Police of Berkeley, California. During the ensuing conversation the idea for, and value of, pre-employment police training was discussed. As a result of this conversation, on October 2, 1930, a two-year "technical training" course for police officers was initiated under the supervision of the Social Science Department. The Police Administration Program was the first degree granting program of its kind in the United States.

By 1934 the name of the program had changed to the Police School. Over the years, the curriculum was expanded to cover all stages of the criminal justice system. Since 1970, the curriculum has been further developed to include courses that address a full range of justice issues from family and community violence to discrimination and inequality under the law. The name change to Justice Studies in 2004 signifies the department's more holistic approach to studying justice and the emphasis on academic research in the law and justice fields.

San José State University's Justice Studies program has consistently been rated among the nation's best. The department has a longstanding reputation of academic excellence, and this tradition continues today as our curriculum changes and expands to meet the demands of an increasingly complex, globalized world.

Our graduates have gone on to become professionals within the criminal justice system, have careers in non-profit justice related agencies, and to continue their education in law schools and a wide range of graduate programs. We are proud of all the alumni who have graduated from our programs over the years and congratulate today's graduates!
