Workload Impact: Departments who provide an alternative writing assessment to satisfy the writing requirements will need to devote resources to design and execute the assessment and evaluate its effectiveness. CGS, UWC, and GS&R will need to review the proposals. GVAR class numbers and sizes might change if many departments opt for providing an alternative writing assessment plan.

Financial Impact: The design and execution of some alternative writing assessments might require release time for the faculty-in-charge. GVAR class FTES might be reduced.

- 1. Graduation Writing Assessment Requirement (GWAR), undergraduate level. [unchanged]

- 2. Graduation Writing Assessment Requirement (GWAR), graduate level.
 - a. Every department (or equivalent unit) responsible for a graduate degree program shall include a course that satisfies GWAR in the program requirements and overall units unless they have an approved alternative writing assessment (section 2.d). If a student's GWAR is fulfilled as described in section 2.b, and the mechanism of fulfillment reduces the number of units the student completes in the degree, the required units shall be made up with a departmentally-approved course, so that the unit count for the program is identical regardless of a student's pathway for completion of the GWAR.
 - b. Fulfillment of the GWAR shall be a requirement of classified graduate students as a condition necessary for advancement to candidacy for the award of the graduate degree. Master's and doctoral degree requirements may be considered separately. Fulfillment of the GWAR shall be established by:
 - i. Satisfactory completion of a course approved by the College of Graduate Studies of at least three graded units in which a major written report is required. The course should be completed prior to advancement to candidacy; or
 - ii. Approval by the department and College of Graduate Studies of a professional publication written in English for which the candidate was a primary author; or
 - iii. Completion of a master's or doctoral program with a substantive writing requirement at an accredited university in which the primary language of instruction is English unless a department requires additional documentation of writing proficiency; or
 - iv. Satisfactory completion of an alternative writing assessment as described in 2.d.
 - c. Courses proposed to satisfy the graduate-level GWAR must be approved by the College of Graduate Studies. Courses will use guidelines developed by the College of Graduate Studies in consultation with Graduate Studies and Research and University Writing Committees. The College of Graduate Studies shall review and recertify these courses at the time of the course's home Department's Program Planning Process. Approved courses may be recommended for withdrawal by the Dean of the College of Graduate Studies if sufficiently high standards have not been maintained or the course has otherwise become deficient. The University Writing Committee (UWC) shall be consulted for advice at the request of the College of Graduate Studies.

- d. Departments with graduate programs may develop an alternative writing assessment to satisfy the GVAR in place of an approved course. The alternative writing assessment must be designed to ensure that every student graduating with a graduate degree from the program has achieved satisfactory graduate-level proficiency in writing according to disciplinary standards, as determined by the evaluating department. Such alternative writing assessments (e.g., series of assignments across courses, or a portfolio developed over the course of the graduate program) must include a mechanism to assess the student's writing proficiency and a process whereby a student who does not meet the standard can work to meet the standard. Alternative writing assessments will align with a set of guidelines developed by the College of Graduate Studies (CGS) and the University Writing Committee (UWC) in consultation with the Graduate Studies and Research (GS&R). Proposals for an alternative writing assessment should be submitted to CGS, who will seek review by the UWC before determining whether to approve the proposal. Alternative writing assessments, once approved, are reviewed and recertified at the time of the home department's program planning process. Satisfactory completion of an alternative assessment shall be reported to the Graduate Admissions and Program Evaluations office for use as part of candidacy and graduation review.
